Learners with Down syndrome

A HANDBOOK FOR TEACHING PROFESSIONALS

This handbook is intended to provide a comprehensive introduction for teachers who have students with Down syndrome in their classes.

The handbook has been compiled from the work of a number of well known specialist educators around the world.

Down Syndrome Victoria hopes this handbook will help education professionals to understand learners with Down syndrome and successfully include them in the classroom.

While it does not offer a blueprint for how to teach a learner with Down syndrome, we hope it will help and inspire teachers to develop strategies and techniques to support students who have Down syndrome - and along the way help meet the needs of other students in the class.
